

Do you have any experience working with pediatrics or do you mostly work with adults?

Dr. Cuevas:

I have seen sometimes, maybe three or four, and they work properly also. They have complete recoveries and it was safe for them. But I understand that you'll have to be more sure to make ECT in children.

Thinking for parents, it's very difficult to make a decision about ECT for their daughter, for their children, and I guess it's more difficult to apply the therapy.