

Why did you want to get involved with The Catatonia Foundation?

Dr. Cuevas:

I want one in Spain.

When I knew that you were doing this foundation, it was awesome, especially seeing patients talking about catatonia and the treatments and doing it in a very easy way, not a technical way. What are you feeling as a family member? What are you feeling as a patient when you are having catatonia? And I think that it was really amazing for us.

It's very impressive that a family member or a patient knows that they have been experiencing catatonia. So it was really an impact for me. And I think that it's very important because the fact that you are talking about this condition makes people more sensitive to the needs and also for the research studies and for professionals.

I think that it's an awesome job that you are doing. I'm really impressed about that. I just can give you my congratulations.
