

Jonathan Rogers introduction

My name is Jonathan Rogers. I'm a medical doctor working in London in the UK, and I spent my time half in clinical practice, and I'm based at the National Hospital for Neurology and Neurosurgery, and half in research, and I work at University College, London. My research is in neuropsychiatry, that overlap area between neurology and psychiatry. I'm particularly interested in movement disorders such as catatonia.